EXTENSION OF THE NASHVILLE RAILROAD—Excursion to New Haven .- Step by step the iron horse advances southward through the heart of Kentncky. Link after link is being forged in the grand chain which is to connect our Falls City with the snnny and prosperous South. It may be that the progress of our enterprise is not so rapid as that characteristic of other sections; but it is sure-footed. Thus our Nashville railway, in which so much hope for the future prosperity of our city is centered, and so many hons of the people's money is invested, goes ahead—slowly, indeed, but very surely. Yesterday this grand enterprise took ANOTHER STEP FORWARD, and the extension of the railroad with two daily

trains to New Haven, Nelson county, forty-five miles distant, was duly commemorated. Not with any ostentation, but quietly, pleasantly, and comfortably. At 6 in the morning a train of cars crowded with ladies and gentlemen, left the depot at the corner of Ninth and Broadway. There was, of course, the preparatory shricking of the good locomotive "Hart County," and the bustle and confu-At last we were off, and at a startling pace .-

sion incident to packing a half hundred well hooped ladies in seats designed and constructed for comfort ere the advent of the crinolined Empress Eugenie. Houses, gardens, fences, and trees disappeared as if by magic. We crossed the old turnpike near the Oakland course, but with such speed that we could barely recognize the antiquated toll gatherer, and the white line of McAdam over which in stages the tide of travel passed in the olden time. Soon we had left the bright fields ripe for the sickle, and entered npon that wild and tangled forest, dreary at times, but here and there brightened by clusters of the fairest wild roses and the greenest of clambering vines-blne-bells blooming on one side, and the reddest of blossoms on the other. But the wild swamps and thick woods, which have so long made that section Jefferson county famons, are losing their wilderness prestige. Every few rods we discovered a clearing, with a rough log house and the usual accompaniment of children and dogs. Upon several beautiful sites gentlemen of the city have arranged for the erection of country residences. Among others, Prof. Yandel with his extensive "hennery," Mr. H. C. Pindell and his lime kilns. Dr. Somerby and his vineyards, Bland Ballard, and others. We had but time to note these outposts of civilization, when the shrill whistle announced our approach to the county seat of Bullitt. We hurried across the magnificent bridge which spans Salt River, and looked with a serio-comic feeling upon that stream which has become so noted as the resort of political defuncts. It was as placid as the brow of a sleeping infant, and its bright bosom sparkled where, through the overarching trees, the beams of the new, np-rising sun kissed the clear water. There is, however, no time for sentiment on a railway car. We can only glance at the long line of blue hills that mark the margin of the river-the graceful. wood-crowned hills, nick-named "knobs," that so

The large premises are well enclosed. and the village at the furnace is one of the most handsome in the State. It has a considerable population, with these accessories of virtue and intelligence-s school house and church. Of course the population is moral and well informed. We have seen no recent statistics of the Belmont Furnace, but understand that Messrs, Patterson, Moore, & Co. the enterpressing proprietors, are diligently engaged in developing these long neglected mineral resources.

employing a large number of workmen, and for the excellent pig metal which they produce find a ready market. But at this rate we are not nearing New Haven. We must pass hurriedly the station where passengers take the stages for Elizabethtown, Grayson Springs, and the Mammoth Cave. A large party destined for those pleasant summer resorts quitted us there, and went tumbling and rolling through the green woods and over the rough hills in the oldfashioned coaches, with their brusque drivers and gay horses. Presently we crossed the Rolling Fork, and entered Larue county, through one corner of which the road passes. But it is not far into Nelson,

not the chief city of the land of steady habits whence annually droves of youthful A. B.'s are dispatched over the world to seek their fortnnes and equally youthful mules are shipped to assist in cultivating the West India islands-but the leading town of this remote section of Nelson county. As we rolled into the town the shriek of our locomotive, echoed by the surrounding hills, was gaily answered by the horns of the various stage-drivers who were already mounted upon their boxes and ready to dush on towards Nashville and the South. New Haven is pleasantly situated on the Rolling Fork, and has a population of four hundred, a hotel, where with the dignity, grace and urbanity of a host of the good old time, Mr. Talbott welcomes the wearied stranger and makes him feel at home beneath his hospitable roof. The brisk business character of the village was entirely unexpected. A large depot is in course of construction, and we noticed an almost constant succession of wagons bringing in country produce for shipment to the city. Hay appeared to be the chief article. There are two churches-Methodist and Roman Catholic, with a Baptist church in the vicinity; the people of that denomination having as is their wont in the country sought an out of the way location in the woods. Of course the little town was all agog with excitement. The rustics were in fall force, and the villagers, elated at their close and unchangeable union with the city and the rest of the world, manifested with great propriety their elation of spirits.

THE SUBURES. It was not, however, for us to remain in the village -safe, pleasant, and agreeable haven though it was The hospitalities of the people were extended to the Lonisville guests, and we were made a willing captive to the kind attentions of Dr. Elliott, who resides in the immediate vicinity, upon a beautiful emnence, where his fine old homestead has been so long the seat of elegant and refined Kentucky hospitality. Of the ride to his country seat-of the lovely lawn surrounding his residence, of the glorious old locusts that shadow the premises, of the use and its amiable inmates, of the over-plenteous nature of his edibles, we have no time to speak. If an example of the true and courteous Kentnckian at home be demanded, we could signalize no more fitting exponent than Dr. E. But, last of all, can we trust ourself to speak of the witching faces, and the fairy forms and silvery voices of that bevy of bright-eyed girls (we prefer the endearing home term) who laughed and sang and romped the brief hours away. We could but walk demurely to the depot, and whistle as we sped away—

THE MONKS OF LA TRAPPE. We came near allowing the darling creatures, with all their endearing young charms, to disalpate from our recollection the Monastery, in the vicinity of Now Haven, where reside some seventy of the Monks of La Trappe. The grounds are handsomely arranged and well cultivated-the buildings, especially the church, magnificent-but the poor celibates, recluses, cast-offs, or whatever they are, what can can we say good of them? They pray seven hours per day, labor seven honrs, and sleep seven hours. The remaining three are spent in such sturtless recreation as they can devise. We have due reverence for everything-even sham. which is guised under the cloak of religion; but we do not see how we can excuse such numanliness as these monks display in their cruelly ascetic mode of life. Their apparel is coarse and peculiar—their heads shaven close to the skull, and their one meal a day, exclusively of vegetables-not such as the dainty Apicius would have craved: bnt a Barmecide feast, indeed. THE POAD

It is high time, however, to be practical. The Lebanon branch is graded to its terminus, twentytwo miles beyond New Haven. The iron is purchased and the track will be laid by the middle of October. We have never been over a new road hed of such excellent construction. It is smooth, well ballasted, and capitally managed, and we were not surprised at the excellent frame of mind in which Mr. J. F. Gamble, the Superintendent, appeared at the success of his pet enterprise. Mr. Smith, the conductor, is au fatt in his line of duty, and consequently a true gentleman. We found, too, the baggage master and all the employees courteous and

In concluding the notice of an event so important n the history of Lonisville, we must not forget meeting our old friend in railway excursions, Capt. John R. Talliaferro, one of the proprietors of the Southern Express. He and his partners will render that an institution equal to the Adams or the American. In his good company, and under the seal of his office, we found ourself at 61/2 yesterday afternoon in the depot building on Broadway, and just here we and the reader must part company, having arrived at the terminus of our ninety miles excursion.

University of Louisville.-Advices have been received of the arrival in New York of five cases of anatomical models and preparations for the medical department of the University of Louisville, and Mr. Hector Bossange, the efficient agent, writes to the medical faculty that the extensive snite is in process of being prepared under the direction of an eminent anatomist of Paris and will soon be forwarded to the University. When the entire suite of apparatus, models, and preparations ordered by the faculty is completed, we are assured that it will be one of the most valuable in the country.

W. L. Epperson has been appointed p ter at Yazoo City, in the place of M. D. Haynes, RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river here is about at a stand with 41/2 feet rater in the canal. Capt. Smith of the T. C. Twitchell reports only six feet water in the channel to Cairo. The river is now known in a worse condition than it will be even if it gets lower, as the channel has not yet washed out. Capt. Smith was asking an advance on freights last evening-for pound freights 30 cents per hundred, pork 60 cents per bbl, and tobacco $5 per hhd.

HEAVY FAILURE-MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE, &c .- Information reached this city on Tuesday that J. H. Shouse of Woodfo.d had failed, made an assignment, and disappeared. Shouse was considered a wealthy man and speculated in almost everything. He was in this city on Saturday, and borrowed from a relative, who is a merchant, $5,500. He left for his home on the same day, and arriving at Frankfort after bank hours induced one of the cashiers there to reopen the bank to take up his note which he had permitted to be protested. He then left for home, and on Monday morning at o'clock he made an asignment or of all his property to three citizens of Woodford for the benefit of his creditors. Since he has not been seen or heard of. His property is rated at $100,000, and his indebtedness at $200,000. We earn that Shouse's indebtedness to merchants in this city amounts at least to $20,000. He passed his paper on one house to the amount of $8,000, which purported to be endorsed by his father and cousin, bu it turns out that the nrmes were put 30 it

It is however probable that his relatives, who are highly respectable, will compromise the maeter with the holders of the paper.

CATARACT HOUSE, NIAGARA FALLS.—The popuarity of this glorious Hotel is undiminished. Thronged by the wealth and fashion and beauty of this and of all other lands, its success perhaps was never before so marked and brilliant as it is to-day. It certainly was never more worthy of the most complete and splendid success. Its magnificent appointments, its masterly conduct, its commodiusness, its wonderful neatness, its sumptuons ness, taste, elegance, and pervading air of reinement, constitute it, what, indeed, everybody acknowledges it to be, one of the most perfect and charming Hotels in the world. Its fame, as the reward of nearly half a century's generous and skillful enterprsic, is all but coextensive with that of Niagara itself, and, so far as it goes, is an imperishable part of the glory of the mighty cataract. It possesses, beside its actual and visible perfections, that prestige of time which no art can compass and no wealth or energy acquire. Its immense positive attractions are at once heightened and mellowed by the charm of years. Probably no Hotel on either side of the Atlantic surpasses it in this respect or

VIGILANCE COMMITTEE AT LA CROSSE, WISCON sin .- The citizens of La Crosse, Wisconsin, on Monday evening of last week met at the court-house, to the number of three or four hundred, and resolved to organize themselves into a vigilance committee for the purpose of ridding the town of some of its iniquitous influences. They then proceeded, en masse, to a notorious house of ill-fame, and, after giving the inmates time to leave, burned the den to the ground. They then went to the north part of the city, and after demolishing the furniture, smashing the windows and doors, set fire to the house known as the "St. Charles." and which had been used as a place of prostitution and a resort for blackless and villains. They also visited two other similar houses. but spared them on condition that their occupants should leave next day. The excitement in the town was intense.

ADVANCE IN LEATHER AND HIDES .- In our re view of last Tuesday we noticed an advance with a further upward tendency on the prices of leather and hides in the eastern markets. A letter from : dealor in Boston, of the 9th, to a house in this city.

Leather has gone up two cents per pound since the 7th inst. Owing to the depression in leather, many of the manufacturers left off making; and the stock on hand of desirable fall goods is rather small, and should there be the usual demand for goods, there must be a great scarcity and goods rule high.

Hull's New York circular reports the stock leather extremely light. The stock of ox and cow hides in first hands, on the 1st ult., was 175,500; same time last year, 81,200, and year before last, Swindler and Thief Arrested - Lyman P. Ric Subtidier and Thief Arrested.—Lyman P. Richardson was arrested on Sunday evening at the Illinois Central Railroad Depot, charged with stealing $40 in money from an old man, a stranger in the city. Richardson claims to have been in government service in Kansas. In his baggage was found a U.S. vice in Kansas. In his baggage was found infantry overcost, a belt bearing in metal let word "Marshal," and an army pistol.

FROM CENTRAL AMERICA.—We have files of Panama and Aspinwall papers to the 4th inst. The Aspinwall Courier says:

THE CROPS.-The Helena (Ark.) Shield, of last eek, says:

We regret to hear, as we do from our planting friends in many directions in this State and Louisiana, that the cotton crop is being damaged immensely by the rust. The late heavy and protracted rains have also injured the crop extensively, causing a luxuriant and sappy growth almost entirely destitute of fruit. The grass, meantime grows appears tute of fruit. About sunrise the party arrived at an Indian village on the Yellow Medicine river, five miles from the Agency. They immediately surrounded the lodge in which Inkpaduta's son was staying; but upon the approach of Mr. Flandrau and one of the Indian guides he became alarmed, and, running from the lodge, took refuge in a ravine where the grass was sufficiently high to afford a good hiding place. KENTUCKY RIVER IMPROVEMENT. - A public meeting of the citizens of Fayette county, in reference to the continuation of the improvement of the Kentncky river to the Three Forks, was held in Lexington a few days ago. The object of the meeting was to appoint delegates to a convention proposed to be held in the city of Lexington on the second Monday in August next, for the purpose of taking into consideration this important improvement, and of producing concentration of purpose and unity of action among those whose interests are deeply concerned in the speedy accomplishment of the work. The meeting, besides taking the necessary steps to have the county of Fayette represented, took occasion to express in decided terms their favorable opinion of the proposition, and, without a dissenting voice, declared their determination to unite with the other counties on the Kentncky in the prosecution of a work which will make that river navigable at all seasons of the year. The Lexington Ob-ble at all seasons of the year. The Lexington Observer says:

To enlarge upon the innumerable benefits which are to flow from the accomplishment of this great enterprise would be a work of supererogation in us. The inexhaustible supplies of coal, salt, and Inmber to be found in the mountains through which the head waters of the Kentucky river flow, and the fact that they can be obtained at less than one-half the present value of all those articles all along the river, when its navigation shall have been rendered safe and certain at all seasons, by the means proposed, is of itself an unanswerable argument in favor of the work, and we anticipate from the convention to assemble in this city on the second Monday in next month the initiation of steps which will insure the ultimate success of the movement.

We trust that every county on the borders of the river, and within a convenient distance of it, will send full delegations to this convention; and that such a voice will then be raised in favor of the proposed improvement, and such measures be taken, as will render certain the speedy accomplishment of the great purpose in view. Lexington and Fayette county are deeply—indeed we mught use a stronger term and say they are vitally interested in this work, as are all the counties from the sources of the Kentucky to its mouth, and they must prove on the second Monday in Angust that they are in earnest in their determination that the benefits of this great work shall no longer be withheld from the vast extent of country interested in it. Lexington will make all needful provisions for the accommodation of this convention, and trusts that a large representation will be present to unite their counsels and combine their energles for the speedy accomplishment of the end proposed. ment of the end proposed.

DEATH OF AN OLD PIONEER.-Elijah W. Craig, Esq., died at Lexington on the 5th inst. in the 78th year of his age. The following interesting sketch of his life we find in the Lexington Observer:

of his life we find in the Lexington Observer:

Mr. Craig was born In Caroline county, Virginia, September 25, 1779. His father, Joseph Craig, the celebrated Baptist preacher, came to Kentucky in 1781, and settled at Craig's station, in what is now Garrard county, and two years after removed to this, Fayette county; and the subject of this notice has ever since been a resident of the county and city of Lexington. Mr. C. belonged to a family of great strength of mind and character, of courage and endurance, as is shown by their struggles with the native Indians, for the goodly heritage which we now enjoy. They were among the earliest pioneers to this region of the State, and fully realised, in their contests with the red man, what it was to live upon a soil which we now talk of historically as "the dark and blood ground."

Our deceased neighbor and friend, to whose memory we indite these lines, being cradled and reared amid the storms of early warfare—at a time when it was much more common to instruct a boy in the use of the trigger than of books—was deprived of that poli-h from education which he was so capable of receiving. His thirst for knowledge, however, was not restrained, for he read with avidity books that he could reach in all departments of books that he could reach in all departments of knowledge, so that, with a close observation of men, and various and extensive reading, he acquired an amount of information which few men possess. But he has passed from the living world. After a long and painful illness, he has fallen asleep, leaving a devoted family and a large circle of friends to mourn that they shall see his face no more.

A SILVER STATE .- The projected territory of Arizona is reported to be as richly endowed with silver mines as California is with gold diggings. The Gadsden Purchase, if all the reports from that quarter should prove true, will be almost as valuable an addition to our territory as California. Those ores were from the veins lately opened and excupied by the Sonora Exploring and Mining Company, and were forwarded by the manager of the Company from Tubac, Gadsden Purchase, to the office of the Company in Cincinnati.

The late discoveries of silver in the Gadsden pnrchase, it is said, are attracting much attention in California. Some of the mines are represented as very rich in ailver, and the proprietors are only waiting for Government to protect the inhabitants of the purchase from the depredations of the Indians to enter extensively upon mining operations. The Gila river copper mines are about being worked by a company formed in San Francisco, and there is every probability that a region of country which has heretofore been regarded as utterly valueless will prove one of our most productive mineral pos-

FIRE. Quite a destructive fire occurred at Columbia, Tenn., on Friday night last. The fire broke out about 9 o'clock, in the kitchen of the Franklin House, which resulted in the total destruction of. that building, and the serious damage and loss of other property. We copy the following from an extra issued from the Mirror office:

The Franklin House was the only building de troyed, but as all the merchants, grocers, &c., in the adjoining houses removed their goods to the street, they all sustained losses. The office of the Columbia Mirror is a perfect wreck this morning, nearly all the type having been pied.

The heaviest losses are P. D. Franklin, $5,000; Isham Lamb, $1,500; O. P. Nicholson, $2,500; and half a dozen others, varying from $100 to $500 each.

CONSOLATORY .- The Courrier du Canada, a French Catholic paper, speaking of the recent calamity to the Montreal, says that "Rev. M. Baillargeon, Cure of St. Nicholas, before a single soul perished, gave absolution to all the unfortunate persons. He was in his own parish on the opposite shore of the St. Lawrence, observed the danger in which the lives of those on board were, and pronounced the abso-lution. This intelligence may be consolatory to the friends of the victims who were Roman Catho-

REMARBLAGES IN ENGLAND. - A Leipsic paper states a curious fact—that, in the commen the 17th century, the singular custom of remarriages was prevalent. If a man was absent from home for a very long time, so that his wife had reason to believe him dead, she had a right to contract a second marriage. If it happened afterward that the first hasband returned, and wished to be established in his former position and rights, a remarringe took place between the long-suspended pair.

SPRING CHICKENS .- A young girl in Detroit put the figure fourteen in her boots, the other day, and then went before a justice with her boy lover, and made oath that she was "over" that age. The justibe hesitated to perform the marriage ceremony, and, while hesitating, the parents of both the children entered the office, spanked the adolescent rogues, and sent them home to bed.

An old man, named Knowles, residing in San Francisco, who was worth some $25,000, recently became offended at his daughter and her husband, with whom he resided, and left them, placing himself under the care of a Mr. and Mrs. Pelling, who are in ho degree related to him, to whom he made over all his property on condition of their supporting him for the remainder of his life.

The silver ore taken out of the Sopori mines. in the Gadsden Purchase, is represented to be inexhanstible, and can be traced perhaps a mile on the surface. The average yield is twelve marks, or ninety-six dollars of pure silver to three hundred pounds of ore. The character of the mine is canic, and water is convenient and plenty.

ADDRESS BY REV. DR. CRAIK. - The Palmyra (Mo.) Whig, in noticing the commencement of St.

Paul's College, says: The annual address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Craik, of Louisville, Ky. The orator was extremely happy in his choice of a subject—The Conservative Elements in American Society—and we servative Elements in American Society—and we trust that the good seed scattered on the occasion did not fall on stony ground. We feel satisfied that the great body of the audience fully concurred in the sentiments put forward on the occasion. As for ourselves, we freely confess they found a ready lodgment in our breast, and happy, thrice happy were we in listening to the glowing words of the orator, as he held up to the view of the assembled youth, and mature in years, those principles npon which our safety as a nation must manifestly depend. It is not within the scope of the present article to give anything like a synopsis of the address. We have only to say that it was an exceedingly able and interesting production, fortunately conceived, well delivered, and by no means without good effect.

The Rosalie, bound for St. Anthony, in crossing the river from this city to Dunleath, struck a log or stone, probably the former, on the Dubuque side, and sunk while lying beside the stone warehouse on the other side of the river. He has not yet recovered it, and probably never will.

LETTER FROM GERMANY.

Wiesbaden, Nassau, June, 1857.

My DEAR —: Here I am at Wiesbaden, almost as much surprised as you will be to find me here. We have been at Schwalbach four weeks, and, being a little weary, we suddenly concluded to examine into the state of our funds, and if we could pay up, to be off to Wiesbaden, where we expect to meet Mrs. F. off to Wiesbaden, where we expect to ineet Mrs. F. and receive a remittance from J. I had not intended to leave Schwalbach finally for three weeks. E. had written that she was not well, and I wished her had written that she was not well, and I wished her to join me at L. She wrote that morning, declining to come. C. wished to go home, so we put our money together and held a hurried consultation and thought we should have enough to get to Wiesbaden. It was counting very close, but still we thought we could manage it. We set aside enough to pay the Brunnen gtrl who hands the water, a fee for the chambermaid, and one for the head waiter. Then we ordered the bill and paid it. Presently a bill came in from the village, and we were obliged to pinch a piece out of the Brunnen girl to pay it. Then came a bill from the apothecary, and we pinched a piece out of the chambermaid. Then, suddenly, we remembered that we had had no dinner, and that we were obliged to eat and pay for one before we could get away. This last demand extinguished the head waiter entirely. Pinching a piece out of him wouldn't do! He just sufficed to pay for C.'s and N.'s dinner; I went without. I must confess we left wouldn't do! He just sufficed to pay for C.'s and N.'s dinner; I went without. I must confess we let's Schwalbach rather disreputably.

When we went to the post-bureau to have our trunks weighed, we were all afraid we should not have money enough. However we had a gulden and a half left. I am sure three people never felt as rich before with the same amount of funds! We absolutely looked at it, smiled upon it, counted it, gloated over it several times on the way to Wiesbaden. On our arrival, porterage reduced our capital twenty-four kreutzers. Mrs. F. had not arrived! I symediately wrote to the Consul and Miss F. enden. On our arrival, porterage reduced our capital twenty-four kreutzers. Mrs. F. had not arrived! I immediately wrote to the Consul, and Miss F. enclosed a letter to her mother, at Frankfort. We paid postage, which took our loose change, and went to bed with gloomy thoughts, a florin and kreutzer! I am writing my letter before breakfust. I will write also at Frankfort, where I will go this afternoon. To-morrow is the Sabbath; I shall pass it in Frankfort Monday morning at 10 o'clock we go to FRANKFORT, Sunday Morning, June 14, 1857. I have a sort of pride in commencing to write to you again before breakfast. I had not niuch to be proud of, dear F., for just at that moment the walter came in with the collect. I had something to be glud of, however, for it was a very good breakfast! I must now go back and tell you something of vesterday. Immediately after breakfast, we started to walk—went first to the "Kochbrunnen," or bolling spring. It looks like it might answer for a wash-boiler for oue of our mammoth Nam Vest botale. I tasted the water with consider. York hotels. I tasted the water with considerable misgivings and found it detestable. Imagine to yourself hot Blue Lick water; don't you suppose it would be delectable? We then walked to the tor of one of the mountains to see the Greek Chapel We had a lovely walk, winding round the side of the hill, and we found the chapel resplendant! is very lofty, capped by five minarets, one in the centre and four surrounding it. Upon each of these minarets is a dome of gold! It looks like gold, and, as I could not handle it, there is no use in being critical. You could not say of it, "How is the gold become dim and the most fine gold changed." Each minaret looked like the sun at noonday, borrowing the sun's rays and outlashing her. It was dazzling to behold! This chapel is the mausoleum of the Grand Duchess of Nassau. She has been dead twelve years—died at nineteen. In a little recess of el is her tomb, and upon it a most beautifu piece of sculpture, a female figure, said to be a good likeness of the Grand Duchess. The cast must have been taken

"The mild angelic air, the rapture of repose," in that image of beanty, I never saw equalled. Six of the apostles are carved on one side of the Sarcophagus and six on the other. The fonr corners are supported by Wisdom, Faith, Hope, and Love. The foor is of tesselated marble, and the walls covered with beautiful paintings representing the patron saints of Russia and Nassau. The Grand Duchess was the cousin of the present Emperor of Russia.
Of course we had a fee to pay to the man who shows the chapel. We had not thought of this till the last moment, then held a hasty council over our last gulden. Rather a crisis in our affairs! Three wo-men at Wiesbaden, the capital of Nassau, sight-seeing and giving themselves airs, with one florin and one kreutzer, not even enough to try our fortunes at the gambling table! You must have two forms for that! Situated as we were, the florin are decided. ing and giving inclusives are, with one florid and one kreutzer, not even enough to try our fortunes at the gambling table! You must have two florins for that! Situated as we were, the florin was decidedly too much, but we could not hand it and ask for change. We concluded to show onr princely love of art by giving all that we had. Then, in a somewhat embarrassed state, sought a quiet spot under the trees to consult! Before leaving the hotel in the morning, we told the waiter we should not dine there. We expected Mrs. F. or our money before dinner, and we intended to have a inagnificent repast, at the Kursaal, when we returned. It was nearly one when we got back to the hotel. The walk and the mountain air had given the girls quate an appetite. We found no Mrs. F., no letter, no money: C. cried, and C. and myself were more heroic! At half-past one the door opened and in walked Ellinor F. with Consul Ricken's housekeeper, a man servant, and better still, money, in abundance! With merry hearts, we took our way to the Kursaal is a magnificent place. Dining-room, reading-room, gaming-room, ball-room. After dinner we took our servants and went into the gaming-rooms. There were two large rooms open; in one they were playing rouge et noir, in the other roulette. Men and women, young and old, were closely seated round the tables, and many spectators seated around. There was perfect silence in the rooms. Any one can go m and look, but there must be silence! I stood some time at each table looking at the countenances of the players as their rouleaus of gold would grow small by degrees and beautifully less. I felt choked in my kenr, and in my throse. "All the terrible stories I had reed of ruined young men, broken-hearted wives and mothers came back upon me. I felt that there was eurose upon the room, and even those who locked upon it. As I turned to come out I saw N. and El.

F, with their backs to the table, purses open, and eyes glittering with a great purpose. They said they were only looking, but they looked as if they intended to try their fortunes. When we had enough of gaming, we took an open carriage and drove to La l'latte, the hunting-seat of the Duke of Nassau. It was a charming ride, and the view from the house is extensive and beautiful. There are rich dark woods all about and the l'hine is convincted. It was a charming ride, and the view from the house is extensive and beautiful. There are rich dark woods all about, and the Rhine is seen in the distance. A large part of the furniture of the honse is made of bnck-horn; the white bones are cut and carved, and inserted so as to look like medallions and cameos. We got back from La Platte just in time for the 6 o'clock cars. We had another view of the Rhine in descending. There is a curious feature about all the European rivers I have seen; they no banks; are on a level with the earth, and the have grass grows to the water sedge and mingles with it. The waters about seem to flow; they look laid down upon the earth like a railroad track. I have no respect for the sleepy-looking affairs. I like a turbid stream, with overhanging banks and crooked trees bending over the water. I believe in water power; I like to see a river with such fine action that you could not take it for a painting.

We reached here (Frankfort) at half-past seven; found Dr. Coar and Mrs. F. waiting at the depot for us. We all came to the Hotel de Angleterre. We had a charming room—two little German beds, put side with white curtains, which made one

The hotel is on the Ross side by side, with white curtains, tonter made of them, sweet furniture, and a bust of somebody on the porcelain stove. The hotel is on the Ross market, and just in front of us is a group of three statnes of Gutemburg, Faust, and Schoffer, inventors of printing. We had a delightful tea, invited Dr. Coar to stay, and laughed and talked merrily together till ten o'clock. Then the F—s took leave. They are not staying in Frankfort, but in a little village near, to be convenient to Dr. Coar, who is fixing Mrs. F.'s teeth. C. and myself slept like balnes. I hope A—M—sleeps as well, for your sweet sake and hers. We dld not go to church for two reasons: we did not know where to go and we had lived in our bonnets for a month; they are desperately shabby. I wish you-could see them. You would be moved to exert yourself in our behalf. To-morrow morning we go to Heidelberg. C. and J. will meet us there. We will explore the Castle and go home in the afternoon. We landed at Havre on the 13th of June, eleven months yesterday. The time seems short and pleasant. I have seen many wonders in the earth beneath. If you had been with us there would have been full contentment with our own condition and a right and charitable frame of spirit toward our neighbor and tentment with our own condition and a right and charitable frame of spirit toward our neighbor and all that is his. Good night.

FRANKFORT, MONDAY MORNING. My watch was ont of order. We rose at five without knowing it; found ourselves with two hours on our hands and nothing to do. We put on our bonnets and hurried out to a walk, I looking for lons, nets and hurried out to a walk, d looking for lions, C. for cherries. We knew nothing of the streets or wonders of Frankfort, but we stumbled on many things of note. First, a very large statue of Goethe, one of the prides of the city. We found our way to the market by following a boy with a wheelbarrow of lettuce. C. bought some cherries, and then we discovered that we were in one of the oldest and most interesting parts of the city, near the old Lutheran Chapel and the old council-house where the ceremonies attending the election and coronation of the Emperors took place. We looked about us for a while and then went home to breakfust. Soon after. Dr. Coar came in; we took a drosfast. Soon after, Dr. Coar came in; we took a dros-chy and drove to the Consul's—made a very pleas-ant visit. The Consul mentioned having seen Mr. chy and drove to the Consul's—made a very pleas-ant visit. The Consul mentioned having seen Mr. Garnett Duncan. It was so pleasant to hear the old name which was once familiar as a household word! We then drove to look at the house from the window of which Luther preached—his "Htd." as the Ger-mans call it, i. e. his picture is above the door. The house is just opposite to the Catholic Church; the window projects out on the second story into an open platz. Luther was bold and brave to preach Protestantism in that quarter with the old Cathedral frowning down upon him. We saw the house in which Gothe, was born and his coat of arms yet frowning down upon him. We saw the house in which Gothe, was born and his coat of arms yet above the door; drove into the miserable old Jew's quarter and saw the house in which Rothschild was born; then went to look at his banking-house. We went to M. Bethman's garden to, see the statue of Ariadne by Fannicker. He, the sculptor, belongs to Stuttgart, and of course I felt a national pride in him! Ahem!!! From there we went to the Museum to look at three paintings—we had not time for nin: Anem:: From there we went to the Muse um, to look at three paintings—we had not time for more—the Death by Lightning, the Wise and Fool ish Virgins, and the Trial of Huss. The Cardinals in their red robes; the fat, sleek, Archbishops, looking like sensual old women; the brave old man, pale, thin, care-worn, looking so humble and yet so resolute. Found all the children and servants cars for Stuttgart and reached nome about that past 8 o'clock. Found all the children and servants waiting at the Depot to receive us! When I reached home, I found the honse fit for a princess—carpets all up, floor polished! It was like the Palace Beautiful in Pilgrim's Progress. The front door on the outside was hnng with a wreath of oak leaves twelve inches around and falling in festoons to the floor, crowned at the top with a bouquet and the inscription "Willkommen," welcome, above it. These parties found that the Stevenses had shipped large quantities of their hides to different cities, among quantities of their hides to dinerent cities, almost which some were sold to Osborne, Adams; & Co., of St. Louis; they were only left with the Stevenses to tan, and their place being burned down, they told Messrs. The Paris Constitutionnel, of June 25, takes ad The Paris Constitutionnel, of June 25, takes advantage of the riots which have taken place in Washington at the late elections, the agitation in Ohio about fugitive slaves, and the lavasion of Nicaragua by Walker, to criticise the republican institutions of the United States. Such disorders will not, says the Constitutionnel, convert monarchical nations to republicanism. American society was quite different in the time of Washington. It was distinguished by a very high sentiment of duty and right. The nucleus of that society remains vet, but it is absorbed by the ever growing wave of emigration, which is certainly not composed of the mest respectable citizens of Europe. Instead of thinking of growing larger and larger the republic of the United States would do better to try to amend its morals and get rid of the worst of tyrannies—that of the mob.

Old Maids.—In an "Essay on Woman," a writer remarks that "Beauties generally die old maids. They set such a value on themselves that they don't find a purchaser until the market is closed. Out of a dozen beanties who have come on within the last eighteen years, aleven are still single. They spend their days in working green dogs on yellow wool, while their evenings are devoted to low spirits and French novels."

OUR LECTURE TO-MORROW EVENING. — Three gentlemen who call themselves homan Catholics, hav written us a joint letter, asking if we expect them to so and hear our lecture at Mozart Hall to-morrow atening Certainly wantather expect nor desire them to go and hear us if they prefer staying away—as probably they do. Still we think their souls are decidedly in want of the important truths we shall endeavor to utter.

GREAT BARGAINS IN SUMMER, FANCY, AND tion of ladies, especially those visiting our city in search of the latest styles of all kinds of fancy dry, goods, to the stock at the house of G. B. Tabb, corner of Fourth and Market streets. In order to reduce his stock previous to making his fall purchases, he will offer from this date until the close of the season his entire stock of funcy silks, berege, grenadine and organdy robes, silk and lace mantil las, embroideries and lace goods, organdy and jaconet muslins, hereges and tissues, parasols, &c., at greatly reduced prices. His stock of the above as goods cannot be excelled in point of variety, style, and elegance by that of any other southern or western house. Ladies will find it to their interest be fore making their purchases to examine the goods at this house.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS .- Thursday, July 16 .-With the thermometer at ninety degrees in the shade, and the fierce rays of the sun beating upon the court room, the police court is not the most pleasant place desirable. The atmosphere is close, stifling, and noisome, and where the Judge, clerk, and reporters sit it is almost impossible to inhale a breath of pure air, in consequence of the crowds who block up the windows and prevent the ingress of anything like a breeze. It is to be hoped that our good friend the city marshal will during the remainder of the not season relieve us of these disagreeable nuisances.

Mary Trainor is a jolly Irishwoman, with a blue eye and a rosy face, a spark of native eloquence, and a fondness for the bottle incident to the Milesian race. She was discharged from the workhouse Saturday, and yesterday being fatigued took a glass of beer and a poteen of whisky. There was a "drap" to much and Mary fell by the wayside. Her appeal to the court, however, was too humor ous, too eloquent, and finally too pathetic, to admit of anything but a discharge, and she accordingly departed promising to sin no more.

Tom. Allen and Mike Harmon appeared before the court in regular butcher array-bloody from head to foot, with their heads and countenance mashed in. Their cases were continued for another dav.

Milton, a slave of Joseph Kossin, is in the employ of Mr. Harland, a German brick-maker on Eigh teenth "street. Yesterday he thrashed the workmen and-boss, for which office Rogers was ordered to lay thirty stripes on the African's bare back.

Joseph Lister went on an exploring expedition les evening, and, after being kicked out of two or three houses on Eleventh street, was arrested and placed in jail. Bail in $300 for three months required.

The Alvin Adams, from St. Louis, reports the Monarch aground on Flint Island Bar and the Em pire City still on Cottonwood Bar. The Telegraph No. 3 brought down a portion the freight of the steamer Interchange, which knocked a hole in her hull a: Buffington. The Superior will bring down the remainder. Some of the freight is damaged, "

The steamer Union has arrived from Green river. She will lay up.

GENTS: The calm of our village was ruffled yester-day by a rencounter between diessrs. A. M. Mayo and John Stumbo. Mayo, surprised by a blow from Stumbo, drew a pistol and fired twice. Stumbo DARASOLS AND FANS of everykind and color, size stumoo, drew a pistor and med twice. Stumoo continued to assail him with a chair. The last shot took effect in Stumbo's throat, from which is to apprehended he cannot recover. The examining coursely that he discharged Mayo, it appearing conclusively that he acted in self defense.

> We present some further extracts in regard to the crops from our Southern exchanges:

In Middle Tennessee the wheat crop has turned out remarkably well. Corn, although a little backward, promises to be abundant. There will be more than an average crop of outs. In East Tennessee wheat is splendid. Corn small but of good color, stands well, and then the "oceans" of lt.

In Arkansas cotton, although a little backward, is unusually fine, and it is confidently believed that it will turn out to be the best crop ever raised in the State. Corn. too. is very promising.

will turn out to be the best crop ever raised in the State. Corn, too, is very promising.

In Mississippi in the counties of Coahoma, Bolivar, Sunflower, Washington, and Issaquenna the prospects for crops, both corn and cotton, were never more promising—though somewhat backward, they yet, look healthy.

The Hopkinsville Mercury says that the wheat crop in Christian county may be briefly characterized as magnificent. Such a wheat crop has not been seen within the recollection of the oldest inhabitants. A number of farmers estimate the crop at ants. A number of farmers estimate the crop at forty bushels to the acre of good, plump, heavy wheat, without rust, blemish, or any such thing. ants. The Greenville (South Carolina) Mountainee

The wheat crop has turned out fully one-third more than an average crop, perhaps we might say one-half. Never before were such crops of wheat raised in the country. Never bave we heard of such a yield of wheat. Rev. Mr. Boyce made forty-four bushels on one acre! We understand Col. MeNeely sowed two bushels of wheat in February, and will make forty from them! The corn crop is late, but looks well and has not auffered yet from the drought. The cotton will be light. If we should have early frosts, very little will be made. The oats crop looked well a short time since, but has been cut short by the dry weather. says:

. O S a da T CBrgaco, July 15. The case of Mitchell, colored, vs. Timor, white man, in the U. S. circuif court, was decided yesterday, Judge McLean presiding. Mr. Drummond argued that plaintiff never had been a slave, nor descendant of slaves. The presumption is that he is a citizen of Illinois, consequently entitled to sue in Federal courts.
